"If I can do IT, you can do IT."

- Sarah Hernandez

Light is more than a spark...

It is sustained brilliance that breathes life into vision- to see your dreams clearly, color possibilities, and actualize what you want to make of yourself. At Ladies in IT, we understand that as we imagine the kind of future we want to see in technology, we have an important choice to make: we can light paths that ultimately may not be accessible for everyone to walk on or let light be a guide and focus on nurturing it to brighter potentials through the spirit of curiosity. Understanding that light is also energy, Ladies in IT is here for the days when it feels like the fuel from your passion alone is not enough to sustain you. Our organization was founded on the idea that a strong support system alchemizes you to more radiant realities. Whether you're considering a career in IT, are already established, or just want to know more about the world of technology from a unique perspective, our platform provides informative content, resources, events, and a community for you to explore.

The World Needs More LiIT

At Ladies in IT, we believe in nurturing the brilliance within everyone. Our priority is providing women with access to infrastructure and resources, giving them the freedom to let curiosity be their guide and explore new possibilities.

Although technology is ever evolving, we understand all too well that there are cultures and attitudes in and around these spaces that are stuck in the past and continue to exclude women- especially those of marginalized experience. We hope to dispel the exclusive stigma around technology and create an environment where women are comfortable being themselves, asking questions, and making discoveries.
