

The extraordinary mosaics in the famed Villa Kérylos in Beaulieu-sur-Mer, France, left an impression on Will Massie, CEO of McKinnon and Harris. The visit sparked an idea for a special table, one that showcases the company's partnership with artistic stone and mosaics company and fellow Virginia design brand New Ravenna on custom creations. Embellished with vines, olive leaves and fruit motifs, the hand-fashioned work features tumbled stone for a nod to the ancients. Old World techniques paired with clean new forms, and bespoke possibilities abound. mckinnonharris.com

"I have been enchanted by the elegant silhouettes of ancient vases and vessels for decades," reveals noted designer Roger Thomas. "Egyptian, Cycladic and ancient Greek vases all have an elegance of proportion and a dramatic simplicity of form. I tried to honor those forms in my drawing exercises, in silhouette and in simplicity for my new Delphi collection for Global Views." The latest offering includes accessories, lighting and even a planter—all benefiting from Thomas's quintessential good taste. globalviews.com
